"THIS GOLDEN HAZE"

Andrew Rakidak

"We Pledge Our Loyalty"

John Adams High School

"This Golden Haze"

June 1945

"Will Live Eternally"

With humility
and gratitude,
our class
dedicates
this Album to the memory
of these honored dead.

They have not died
in vain.

"Maroon and Gold"

Maroon and Gold, Maroon and Gold,
We pledge our loyalty.
THIS GOLDEN HAZE of student days
Will live eternally.
These days with thee will cease to be
But through the passing years
The thought of you, Maroon and Gold,
Calls back fond memories.
The thought of you, Maroon and Gold,
Calls back fond memories.

"Through the Passing Years"

AS the "Golden Haze" of the future clears, the brilliant lights of a Hollywood première shine on a happy reunion of the class of June, 1945.

The movie now showing is "Home in Ohio," with Mary Nokoff playing the lead. Supporting the star, Charlotte Pivonka and Mildred Jilek deserve plaudits for their duet; Raoul Nickschinski, for his Trumpet Tunesters; and Evelyn Garay, for her ballet technique.

Chief among the distinguished first-nighters, Virginia Mogge, Ann Meggas, and Caryl Raymont display their charm as Powers models. In an animated conversation Rose Lipari, interpreter for the Foreign Legion, is joking with Dr. Richard Sanders, editor of the Medical Journal. Sandy Artino, radio's favorite Master of Ceremonies, is "talkin' shop" with Sam Sloban, news commentator. Jean Hale, poetess, is discussing bodily form with the noted instructor in physical education, Eleanor Puskar.

John Chavers, New York Rens' coach, is discussing basketball tactics with Izzy Smith, coach of the Philadelphia Spahs, while Patsy De Santis, of the Michigan State Champs, and Bud Hamilton, all-American tackle, eagerly wait to change the topic to football. Katherine Dereich is reviewing the première for the Times, while Jessie Lovano is busily completing her sketch for the Mirror. Evelyn Simon, manager of Hollywood's radio station, is speculating with the idea of presenting the play over the air.

Among the servicemen and women present are Helen Wassie and Rose Marie Droter, who came in on the 2:45 Flyer from The University School of Nursing. Lieutenants Ralph Horak and Dick Hill, home from the victorious battle of Tokyo, declare they saw Charles Beckeny selling bonds there. Theresa Gerboc is enjoying the sights, too, since her return from overseas duty with the WACS.

Chattering in the lobby are Phyllis Horvitz, Miriam Hassink, and Irene Hauler, newly graduated nurses. The conversation discloses that Cherie Kline and Anna Konrad are cooking food at Crile Hospital, while Lois Packer, Anna Marie Nebel, and Marion Sugarman are on the committee to clean up the New York slums.

In another corner, Engineer Warren Sladky and Pitcher Bob Jones are discussing the possibility of Irvin Itzkovitz's or Edward Kiernan's becoming the country's best comedian. Norman Conti, oil magnate, tells of hearing pianist Eugene Sabo and violinist Theresa Testa in a joint concert at Carnegie Hall.

After congratulating the stars on their fine performance, the crowd meanders over to Norma Retzlaff's Chinese Restaurant. Over the lobster and shrimp, news of absentees creeps into the conversation. Mary Jane Crowle is living in England, while Rosemary Tencinger and Sheila Osborne are at Heidelberg University. The stage show begins with Don Korecky giving a commercial for McKesson and Robbins. Norman Male, Don Flagg, and Paul Cadek, billed as "Two Men and a Midget," present a comedy, which is followed by Josephine Palas, noted astrologist.

Attorney-General Allan Koshkarian and Senator Dolores Viazanko leave their names in the wet cement, while Katherine Daly, Lois Glaser, and Irene Janko stand on the side-lines. Betty Giallombardo, complete with husband and child, watches the proceedings. President of the Amalgamated Bachelors Union, Jim Westman, chuckles as he gazes at them, and then remarks to Allen Friedman and Frances Galati, "There, but for the grace of God, go I." Larry Doll responds with a laugh to one of Dolores Dick's witty remarks.

Doris Ware, a member of the F.B.I., is on the look-out for subversive activities. Occasionally she reports by telephone to her boss, Salvatrice Noble, that all is well.

The lights dim ..... the happy crowd disperses ..... the laughter dies away as morning's "Golden Haze" brings us back to the world of reality.

"The Thought of You"

To Sicha from Harvard, who spoke of his cat,
To Owens, whose muscle men met on the mat,
To Gabriel and her super plays,
Which made us proud of high school days;

To Wochele and her radio "shows,"
To "Verda" and her Journal woes,
To Burroughs and his Honor Clan—
These helped to fill the master plan;

To Slyh, who ruled the athletic spot,
To Beeney, who marched us in on the dot,
To Bloomfield and his social studies,
We toed the line for all these buddies;

To Irish and his baseball nine,
To Miss McCann and her "Quiet" sign,
To Buess, who coached the champion spellers,
Regular salutes to regular fellers;

To Schaal with his bees and Bopp with his mice,
To Runkle's tests that made us think twice,
To Glasser's books and Markham's Latin—
We'll sing your praises to Manhattan;

To Probeck and Verbsky and all things artistic,
To Dawson and Jarrett and Do, the linguistic,
To Knesal and Lanning, athletic coaches,
To Schlager and Potter with their laughing reproaches;

To Janney and her checkermen,
To Stehn's advice to try again,
To Smith, who boosted the Red Cross line,
And Rosch, whose spirit is keen and fine;

To Mark and Emmett, Dwight and Lil,
Who held the reins while we struggled uphill,
To Richardson and his inspiring speeches,
To Winner's questions beyond our reaches—

To memories fond and memories dear, to tests and exams at the end of the year;
To gym, home ec, and metal shop, to waiting for hours at a street car stop;
To all that goes with a senior year, a wistful sigh, a hearty cheer,
A wave of the hand, a sad good-bye, and one last look at John Adams High.
